UBC IV 2015 Invitation

Boo!

The annual UBC intervarsity tournament is happening this Halloween: Oct 31st - November 1st. UBCIV is a highly competitive WUDC-preparation tournament located in beautiful Vancouver, British Columbia. Exciting Halloween socials, a deep judging pool and a beautiful city are just a few of the reasons you should attend.

Any questions about the tournament can be directed to the Tournament Director, Yash Parmar at ubciv2015@gmail.com. We hope to see you here!

About the UBCDS

Established in 1906, the UBCDS has a long and esteemed history in the debate community, as well as a reputation for hosting efficient and generally gladdening competitive tournaments. We have recently hosted the Canadian Parliamentary National Championship (2013), as well as being hosts of the McGoun Western Canadian Championships (2015, 2012), Canadian British Parliamentary Championships (2009), and the Worlds University Debate Championships (2006). We host two to three intercollegiate debating tournaments yearly, and can draw upon our experienced members and alumni to provide excellent judging at the tournament.

Format

UBC IV will be in British Parliamentary style, with standard WUDC rules and 7 minute speaking times. There will be five rounds with a break to semi-finals. A style guide will be posted sooner to the tournament date.

Adjudication Team

The Chief Adjudicators for this tournament will be Allison Morrell and Conor McGurk.

Allison Morrell was the Deputy Chief Adjudicator of the 2014 Western Canadian Championships. She was the top speaker at Seattle IV 2013 and Hatfield 2014, and has five years experience in inter-collegiate debate. She was also the Tournament Director at Pacific Cup 2014 at UBC and has extensive tournament organizing experience.

Conor McGurk was a Chief Adjudicator of the 2015 West Coast Novice Championship, and has extensive judging experience throughout Western Canada. He was the champion of PSU IV 2015, a finalist at PSU IV 2014, and a finalist at UVic IV 2015.

There will also be a training DCA, to be announced.

Judging Policies

In order to ensure the best judging possible, UBC IV will have an n/2 judging requirement, following a rounding up policy. Experienced judges will count as 2. Experienced is defined as: has broken at a tournament as a debater or judge (excluding in-houses and summer tournaments) and has judged at least one tournament. If your school is travelling from afar to compete, we will be sympathetic to relaxing the requirement.

The CAs of the tournament are perfectly willing to drop teams from the tab who do not arrive on time to any round of this tournament. If you realize you will be late, please contact a member of the adjudication team immediately by email (allisonmorrell@gmail.com) or phone at the numbers to be provided at the tournament so that we are aware of when you will be arriving. If you do not contact us, we will drop you from the tournament without further notice.

The clash policy at this tournament will not necessarily exclude judges from judging teams from their own institutions. This is due to the size of UBC's debate team relative to the size of other institutions in the Canadian West, and is a standard policy at regional tournaments. However, we will not allow judges to judge a team where they are in a paid coaching or staff role relative to that team. We will also not allow judges to judge teams where they are or have been in a romantic or very close personal relationship (e.g. former worlds partner) with a member of those teams. In any other situation where a judge does not feel comfortable judging a team, we will also respect those requests. Any judge or team member in any of these situations should notify a member of the adjudication team, or equity team by email. We will also endeavour to balance judging panels and especially outrounds panels with judges from a variety of institutions.

Please direct questions about experienced judges or any other judging-related matters to Allison at allisonmorrell@gmail.com.

Accommodations

The UBC Debate Society is a large club with plenty of billeting (crash, for the Americans) to spare. Please email us ASAP if you are interested in billeting. Preference in billeting will be given to the teams coming from the greatest distance.

In the past, we have typically had few to no teams choose to stay in a hotel, and as such, we have not arranged a hotel deal. If you are planning to stay in a hotel, please inform us and we can arrange a deal if there is sufficient interest.

Food and Socials

The tournament will provide breakfast, lunch, and dinner on Saturday, and breakfast and lunch on Sunday. There will be an informal social Friday night, followed by an easily accessible Halloween social on campus on the Saturday. Bring a costume!
